

Go to meet your inner elephant... follow us to Abu Camp

You are invited to enjoy a unique experience by sharing the everyday life of an elephant family living at Abu Camp, in the Okavango Delta in Botswana. You will follow Kathy, the matriarch of the group and the herd of eight tame elephants in her travels roundabout, at the heart of the savannah. On foot, or on the animal's back, you will come as close as possible to the wild life of one of the plains of Africa.

A Bush Legend partnership

Abu Camp is located at the heart of the Okavango Delta, deep in a private reserve of 400,000 hectares. Six uniquely designed tents await your arrival under shady foliage in the midst of an ancient forest spanning a river. Each tent has a private deck facing the lake, together with a private bath. The restaurant and bar areas are built on wooden decks winding round fig and sycamore trees. The lounge tent and restaurant tent are equipped with splendid sofas, and include a well-stocked library as well as an office, all benefiting from a glorious view of the lake. For clients who crave exclusivity, there is Elephant Villa, located beyond the lake and only a few minutes away. The Villa will suit either a couple or a family.

Kathy is the matriarch of the herd, which means that she determines their movement, as well as their pauses for rest and pauses to eat... these are welcome intervals for the people accompanying the elephants, for they can take advantage of the tables laid under the trees and enjoy the pleasures of the shade and a picnic.

The herd has adopted a female elephant, taken in by the wardens' team at Abu Camp. Paseka is fed by Shereen, an adult female who, like Kathy, leads visitors over the Okavango Delta.

The matriarch Kathy, the adoptive mother Shereen, Paseka, the mascot of the group, and their carers will be your privileged guides during this journey to the heart of the Delta. As you match the slow rhythm of their movement you will get to know Africa in a new appealing way.
